Prof. Yeung Sheung Kit
楊向杰教授

Prof. Raymond S.K. Yeung, pen-name Shek Chung-Ying, was a prolific writer in the 1970's when he worked as an editor and later as a school teacher. His prose poetry and his commentaries on Trotskyism attracted a great deal of attention and were widely read. He later worked in the tourism and hotel industries before he founded Seligent Limited in 1988. Seligent, which became a strategic partner of the French electronic giant Thomson, played an important role in China's television industry and in the digitalization of television broadcasting when the country began to industrialize. Seligent also orchestrated the merging of Thomson and the Chinese conglomerate TCL, thus creating the world's largest television enterprise. Prof. Yeung is also well known as "the terminator of the Color Picture Tube industry". After the closure of the last CPT factory in the world which he co-founded in Guangdong, he edited and published "The history of CPT industry in China". In recent years, Prof. Yeung has made significant contributions to the academic and cultural worlds by sponsoring various activities and initiatives. He has established the BeiChuan Foundation Fund and the Sir Cecil Clementi Scholarship to facilitate student programmes in mainland China, UK and Hong Kong. Prof. Yeung set up Flintstone Culture, which publishes books and periodicals and produces musicals and films. His film "No.1 Chung Ying Street" achieved "the best picture award" in Osaka Asian film festival in 2018. Prof. Yeung is also an Honorary Citizen of Foshan City, China.
